Curling at the Viking ladies' curling, Mrs. A. C. Milne, Mrs. J. MacKay, Mrs. A. Cook and Mrs. J. Pond won second prize (4 silver casseroles) in the grand challenge. Third prize winners in the same event were Mrs. C. Anquist, Mrs. C. S. Smallwood, Mrs. N. MacMillan and Mrs. O. A. Lovig. Prize, 4 pairs pillow cases.

At Wainwright Mrs. J. MacKay, Mrs. A. C. Milne, Mrs. A. Cook and Lorraine Smallwood won first in the second competition and came home with 4 pairs of sheets.

The Irma mixed curl is not yet completed but we hope to have a full account of this interesting event for next week's paper.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Mr. Oren Spring had a short visit home last week-end, and is now working at Drayton Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fedel left Longbeach, Cal., on Monday of this week to visit in B.C. the remainder of this month. They plan to see erstwhile neighbors Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jackson at Victoria. No doubt they will also call on other former neighbors in Vancouver before travelling on to Chilliwack to visit Mr. and Mrs. Ted Berthel. We wish them a pleasant time renewing old friendships.

Sharon Sunday School and Bible Class will meet next Sunday afternoon, March 17, at 2:00 p.m. with divine worship to follow at 3 p.m.

The heavy fall of snow at the beginning of the week was not unwelcome although it did make roads rather difficult.

A further donation in memory of the late Mr. Peder Nilson has been made to the C.I.B.E. by Dr. T. A. Lyseng.

Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

Hast thou not known? Hast thou not heard, that the everlasting God, the Lord, the Creator of the ends of the earth, faintest not neither is weary? There is no searching of His understanding.

He giveth power to the faint; and to them that have no might He increaseth strength. Even the youths shall faint and be weary, and the young men shall utterly fall.

But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk and not faint. Isaiah 40:28-31.

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan

Farm Safety

Accidents are quite frequent on farms and result in a lot of suffering and expense. Most of these accidents are the result of carelessness and too much haste. Some of the important safety rules are: Don't wear loose, floppy clothing when working around machinery. Don't monkey with moving belts. Keep covers on power take-offs. Stop your machine to oil, grease or repair. Don't climb ladders unless the base is firmly fixed. Shut the engine back. Don't let children play with matches. Don't smoke around barns or fuel supplies.

It may cost days or weeks or even a limb or your life to try to save a minute by taking a chance. Make your move a safe one, this is no place to gamble.

Heating Grain

A little moisture from a leaky roof or snow blowing into a barn can cause grain to heat. A very small amount of moisture will grade and cost you money. Now is a good time to check all granaries for any sign of heating or insect injury.

Rat Control

As the weather warms up we can expect rats to start to move. Everyone should be on the look-out for these pests and at the first sight or suspicion of them report to his Pest Control Officer. Rats do not stay around clean, tidy premises so if you keep the junk out of your yard, lumber piles on freesties and the place generally neat you will probably not be bothered. In those districts where rats are known to be everyone should have poison out in bait boxes in places where rats are likely to go. The poison is supplied free of cost by the Pest Control Officer for it if you run out.

Bee Keeping
Bee keeping can be quite a profitable hobby and there isn't too much work attached. There are good bulletins on bee-keeping at my office. Pick one up and see if you might get interested.

Card of Thanks

I wish to thank all those who kindly sent cards, letters and gifts during my stay in Calgary hospital. —Allen Romagosa.

Final Tribute Paid Marvin Reitan

Marvin Reitan passed away suddenly on March 1 at the age of 52 years and five months.

Marvin Ingvald Reitan was born on September 27, 1904, at Toronto, South Dakota, the third eldest in a family of six children. He was baptized and confirmed at Wood Lake Lutheran church. In June 1926 Marvin came to Canada to the Irma district. He was united in marriage to Mabel Knudson on Nov. 29, 1928.

He is predeceased by his parents. He leaves to mourn his passing, his loving wife Mabel, two sisters, Ida (Mrs. Martin Westly of Wetaskiwin), and Alvina (Mrs. A. Moulder of Hardisty), three brothers, Oscar of Sedgewick, Irvin of Enfield, Sask., and Kenneth of Edmonton; besides nieces and nephews, other relatives, and a host of friends.

Sharon congregation will miss this consecrated worker. He had just become the new president of the congregation after having held the position of treasurer for over twenty years. Since his passing many other tasks have had to be undertaken by others which he cheerfully had assumed. He was leader of the mid-week Bible study group, and he was seldom, if ever, absent from the Sunday morning adult Bible class. His Christian life was deeply sincere. Marvin's place will be missed in his church, while his kindly help will be missed by his neighbors. God saw fit to remove him from our midst to a higher sphere of service.

The funeral service was held at Sharon Lutheran church on March 5 at 2 p.m. Pastor L. Knudson conducted the service and read the obituary. Pastor A. M. Vinje, Dean of C.I.B.E., brought a challenging message from Luke 18:12. "God be merciful to me a sinner!" As a personal friend of Marvin's, Pastor Vinje said that he would have wanted him to use such a text. Erling Nilson sang one of Marvin's favorite hymns, "At the End of the Road." The Rev. Irvin Reitan spoke a few heartfelt words of tribute to his brother. Hymns sung were "What A Friend We Have in Jesus," "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," "I Know of A Sleep in Jesus' Name."

Mr. Reitan was laid to rest in the Sharon cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Carl Anquist, Leonard Peterson, Oscar Likness, Ole Rasmok, Don Cressy and Torleif Larson. McLeod's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Floral tributes were received from loving wife Mabel; Irvin, Anna and family; Kenneth, Viola, Wendy and Kenny; Ida, Martin and family; Reg, Adley and family; Oscar and Olive and Alfred; Ernie, Mavis and family; Cliff and Molley; Mr. and Mrs. S. Westley; Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Westley; Mr. and Mrs. A. Christenson; Mr. and Mrs. Elvin Christenson; Martin and Ethel; Fred and Mrs. Albert and family; Olof and Hattie; Uncle John, Aunt Mary and family; Merle, Dorothy and family; Helen and family; Melvin, Elizabeth and family; Olof and Mabel Lovig and family; Albert, Aletha and children; Nanna Nilson; Irene, Norman, Esther and Evelyn Fluege; Robert Kasten; Henry and Pat Kasten; Irma Brass Band.

Reject new barley for seed use

Parland barley, seed of which is now being distributed by the Canada Department of Agriculture, was not added to the list of varieties recommended for production in Alberta in 1957, Honourable L. C. Halmstad, Minister of Agriculture, has announced.

In the opinion of the Alberta Varietal Zonation Committee there is not yet sufficient data available as to its regional adaptability to the various soil and climatic zones upon which to make recommendations. Present limited information indicates that it may be too late maturing and the straw insufficiently strong to be satisfactory for some of the barley growing areas of Alberta.

Seed of Parland is eligible for the C. W. grades. On the basis of laboratory tests it has been assessed equal to Q.A.C. 23 in matting quality, but it must prove satisfactory by the domestic barley trade before final acceptance as a satisfactory matting barley, and before matting premiums can be paid. — Alberta Publication—Jan. 25, 1957.

YOUR RED CROSS IN ACTION

At hundreds of places across the nation Volunteer women workers are sewing garments and bedding. To meet the present demands caused by the Hungarian emergency this branch of Red Cross service is almost on a wartime basis. Saskatchewan Red Cross recently shipped from the Regina workrooms over 8,000 garments in 17 large cases to help clothe those in need. The materials are bought with funds donated by Canadians each March. On the cutting tables material is laid out and will be cut to pattern by a power cutter.

The next 25 years

Forecasting the future is admittedly an inexact science and probably no one would admit that fact more readily than the five commissioners who have recently made public the preliminary report of the Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects. But the study has been objective and thorough and its forecasts of what Canada may be like in 1980 are at least an unprejudiced projection of past and present trends.

On the matter of population the report states that if net immigration (that is, the excess of immigrants to Canada over emigrants from Canada) averages 75,000 persons annually, Canada's 1980 population will be 26,650,000. The number of Canadians that will be living in cities, towns and villages with more than a thousand people will be 21,010,000; rural population will be 5,640,000.

In the labour force there will be a larger proportion of women, a smaller proportion of young people, and a larger proportion of the over-45 age group. Farm employment will actually drop—the estimate is from 817,000 persons to 735,000 persons—although volume of production per farm will increase by 85 percent. Further mechanization and better land use is the key to this seeming paradox. Manufacturing employment is expected to increase from the present figure of 1,362,000 to 2,382,000.

Output per man-hour in agriculture is expected to increase at an average rate of 3 percent each year until 1970, from then until 1980 at a slightly reduced rate. Output per man-hour in business is expected to increase too. The total value of all goods and services produced by all Canadians (Gross National Product) is expected to increase from the present $1,714 per capita to $2,850 per capita. The average Canadian, after paying income tax in 1980 is expected to have a net income for his own use about 65 percent higher than in 1955.

The thread that runs through the whole text of the report is the factor of population growth and the influence on Canadian prosperity that will flow from the larger domestic market. As the cities and towns expand, with more people at work in factories and shops and offices, the market for the goods and industrial raw materials produced by the farmer will grow. Similarly, as the whole population grows, the market for the goods and services produced by factory workers and all other industrial employees will expand.

New power plant to be constructed

Construction of Manitoba

Hydro's steam electric generating plant on the east side of the Red River, opposite the local golf course, will have a definite impact on the economy and future of Selkirk. This statement was made by Mr. J. R. Rottle, manager of the Construction and Engineering Branch of the Manitoba Hydro-Electric Board when he addressed the Selkirk Chamber of Commerce last Tuesday evening.

Two turbine generators, each having a capacity of 66,000 kilowatts, will be installed in the plant which ultimately will have an output of 260,000 kilowatts. Construction will begin in April of this year and continue until the second turbine is operating in November of 1958. The monthly payroll during the construction period is estimated to reach as high as $300,000.—The Enterprise, Selkirk, Man.—Jan. 16, 1957.

100 YEARS OLD

For parents only... "Cut those apron strings!"

By Nancy Cleaver

Fathers as well as mothers may tend to be over-protective to their almost-grown children. Parents do not like to hear plain truths . . . and unfortunately in many cases they need to be advised to "Cut those apron strings!"

Not long ago this subject was discussed in our hearing. "I wish parents would give their children the chance to make their own choices in a whole lot of little things from the time they are small! Then they would be prepared to make important decisions when they are out on their own!" a collegiate teacher with long experience said.

"How do you know they don't?" we asked her.

"By their hesitation, their unwillingness to take responsibility when they come to us in First Form and all through their years here. Today the Household Science teacher was laughing about a Freshie who asked her 'which match will I use?' . . . but it's really no laughing matter," she answered, and then continued "as I get to know my scholars better, I can see that this refusal of parents to let them grow up is perhaps the one thing which irks adolescents most of all. Frequent there is bitter conflict between a boy or girl and one or both parents over the choice of a vacation. The same thing is true in picking out a 'girl friend' or a 'boy friend'. Why, oh why, don't parents help their children grow up by encouraging them to make their own choices?"

Do you think this a fair criticism? It was a sincere one. The same thing is true in picking out a 'girl friend' or a 'boy friend'. Why, oh why, don't parents help their children grow up by encouraging them to make their own choices?"

Do you think this a fair criticism? It was a sincere one. The same thing is true in picking out a 'girl friend' or a 'boy friend'. Why, oh why, don't parents help their children grow up by encouraging them to make their own choices?"

In the one matter of selecting their child's life work, parents have committed so many blunders that one would think that the thoughtful parent would hesitate to rush in! There are scores of biographies which tell of unhappy men and women who were forced by a father's domination to follow a profession for which they were ill-fitted. Zane Grey's father absolutely insisted that he become a dentist. He obeyed, but was miserable in his years as a dentist. Finally he abandoned this profession and turned to the writing profession, in which he became famous.

Mothers may not be so strong-minded about their child's life work, but they do have a hard time in the field of human relations. It is difficult for most mothers to accept the definition of a good parent as "one who becomes progressively dispensable." Because they are so fond of their little son, it is hard for them to see that by nature the companionship of his peers—his own age group—is becoming increasingly important to him.

A little later on, how rare it is for a mother to look for the good points in her son's best girl! An outstanding psychologist has pointed out in this matter that "it is love that let's him go, not the passionless love that keeps him dependent. Freedom makes a boy's healthy growth to manhood possible."

Mothers and fathers—are you making your children's "healthy growth to maturity" possibly by giving them chances throughout the years to make their own choices? Are you showing your faith in them by cutting the "apron strings" which restrained them from harm when they were small?—Camrose Canadian, Camrose, Alta.—Jan. 9, 1957.

Egg price support continues

The Right Honourable James G. Gardiner announced recently that the price support program for eggs will be continued during 1957 on the same terms and conditions as applied in 1956. The support price will again be 38 cents per dozen, basic Grade A Large eggs delivered at storage points.

Mr. Gardiner said that the Board would, as necessary, purchase eggs at the established price, plus carrying charges, and thus enable commercial buyers and marketing organizations to maintain prices to producers in keeping with the support price.

HOSIERY PRICES MUST RISE

Canadian women can expect to pay a little more for nylon hosiery this Spring.

Manufacturers of some brands of hosiery are notifying retailers of this fact now and are being careful to point out that this is the first increase in six years. Actually, nylon hosiery costs less than six years ago, but increased costs of yarn, machinery, packaging materials, etc., are forcing a rise, which should be noticed in stores about Easter.

Price increases will be small and likely will not be on most nationally known "branded" lines, but rather on cheaper qualities.

O Canada—joy or lament?

(From The St. James Leader, St. James, Man.—Dec. 28, 1936)

Who has not shared the sentiments of editor A. L. Horton of the Veggerville Observer in his comments on the singing of O Canada? Speaking of one patriotic gathering he attended in the east, he says:

"O Canada was played and sung at a slow tempo and a more doleful dirge you never did hear. There we were, men, women and children, standing on guard for these O Canada as if we were about to fall flat on our faces or else sag at the knees and collapse."

"Sung, at slow time, O Canada is next to impossible to sing—it intones. Halfway through it, you see the celebrants swallowing moodily and giving up to stand through the rest of the anthem glancing sadly around at their fellow citizens."

Two days later, editor Horton was in Battleford at a similar festivity. But this time the proceedings were led by the vigorous North Battleford band, which he considers a very fine aggregation of young bandmen. His comment on the Battleford celebration is:

"Well, they opened the proceedings with O Canada, and, ladies and gentlemen, I came close to weeping. For they played it joyously and proudly. So swift and gallant in tempo that you could hardly get your words out in time, and you suddenly found that old words new and strange in your mouth. And you sang, everybody sang, trying to belong to this rousing band. And when you came to the final words 'on guard,' you gave the 'G' a diaphragmatic thud like those six tubas themselves."

"As a long time listener to, and a sometimes weeper for, O Canada, I suggest that whole wide realm learn to sing it the Saskatchewan way."

Hail, indeed, to him

(The News, Indian Head, Sask.—Dec. 15, 1936)

A little belated in the pressure of events, The News would nevertheless not like to miss the opportunity to congratulate editor Ed. Scrivner of The Wolseley News on officiating 50 years in journalistic service, which is claim to making several holes in one during an afternoon and a great deal more arduous. Mr. Scrivner is not like the college professor who grew so old and bony that he even qualified his qualifications, but an astonishing individual who began forthright and ended up adamant, if he thought he was right. It is not easy to hold unshakable convictions on wide topics in these times of alleged flux, when even the debunkers are being debunked, and principles are being reappraised by the minute. Mr. Scrivner has managed to do it, and though such an individual is bound to sail square into the eye of the weather on occasions, with such convictions, it nevertheless is true of our brother editor that public inventory of his qualities has placed him in the highest position within the gift of his community, the mayor's chair, and kept him there. Evidently Wolseley knows a good thing when it sees it.

The incumbent of this office has 30 years in this particular diversified vocation and knows some of the path that Mr. Scrivner has trod.

We hope he accepts our sincere tribute.

Forewarned is forearmed

(From The Guide, Killarney, Man.—January 17, 1937)

A small booklet recently issued by the RCMP, "Beware of Bad Cheques", is one which every business man should give more than a careful glance. In it an attempt is made to point out the various methods used by so-called cheque artists. Canadian business loses an estimated two million dollars a year by means of forgery, much of which could be prevented by the use of a few precautions.

Stores and other places of business, rather than banks, are usually the victims of such individuals or groups.

Before cheques are cashed, positive identification of the individual should be known, all company credit cards and drivers' licenses are not sufficient; they could be stolen. Insist that all cheques be endorsed in your presence and be sure you know your endorser. Almost all forged or stolen cheques are endorsed when presented.

The above are a few suggestions taken from the booklet, and should be borne in mind when cashing cheques.

Top shorthorn

(The Advance, Renfrew, Ont.—Dec. 15, 1936)

Honors were brought to Canada in the Shorthorn judging at the International Exposition, Chicago. At this show, the Shorthorn bull, Scotsdale Jupiter, owned by S. G. Bennett, Georgetown, Ontario, was made grand champion bull and supreme champion Shorthorn of the Show.

Several weeks earlier "Jupiter" had won the grand and supreme championship at the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. Since these shows are rated as the tops on the North American continent, it is an honor rarely achieved for one animal to win this double award.

Incidentally, this feat was previously accomplished in 1948 and again it was a Canadian Shorthorn bull, Scotsdale Bombardier, owned by S. G. Bennett, that scored the double win.

Towns grow—troubles too

(The Post, Hanover, Ont.—Jan. 17, 1937)

A few years ago, nobody would have believed it, but nowadays some of the "middle-sized" towns in Ontario are beginning to take a second look at themselves and their future. These are the towns of 2,500 to 5,000 population, not the ones which have been static for the past half century, but those municipalities which have been getting in a few industries, often one fairly large new factory and two or three small ones with hopes for the future.

These towns have been growing. Recent census statistics show large percentage gains in the past five years. Officers of their Chambers of Commerce wear broad smiles and go tracing down rumors of other industries which want to move away from the large cities, because their management is convinced that life in a small town offers more for their employees.

These towns are changing and that's why some of the residents are wondering whether it might not be better to try to slow down the process, rather than speed it up. Life has been pleasant in these towns, spacious and untroubled. The original town planners laid out no building lots less than 60 feet wide. They see greedy builders buying three lots and crowding four houses into them. There are traffic problems and even parking meters in some towns where councilors haven't learned to say "No" to high pressure salesmen. New houses are followed by new schools, more sewers and large water tanks. Taxes go up instead of going down. In one town, the merchants cheerfully paid extra taxes for roads and services in a new subdivision. When the subdivision was complete, a new supermarket was built in it and new business went there.

Many people, especially in the small towns, have a theory that the ideal population is about 3,500 people. As one merchant summed it up: "If I had wanted to live in a city, I'd have moved there." It's worth a thought anyway.

JOHN CAMPBELL WALKS AGAIN!—This miracle of mobility is accepted as commonplace to most of us—but to John it brought pleasure and happiness and a new mode of life.

Now able to walk thanks to polio fund treatment

John Campbell dropped in at the Times' office last week for a chat and to wish the staff a belated "happy new year."

John, who is 31 years of age, returned to his home with his aunt, Mrs. Dan Campbell of the Meadowbank district, a few weeks ago, able to walk for the first time in his life.

Polio before he was two years of age had left him unable to stand erect. His means of locomotion was to crawl around on all fours, or to be pulled about in a cart. As he grew older sitting upright became more difficult and in recent years constant pain was becoming almost unbearable.

Fifteen months ago, members of the local Legion branch arranged for medical treatment under the Legion-sponsored polio fund and John was admitted to a Calgary hospital.

John passes briefly over any reference to the ordeal of the eight operations he underwent there, or the 13 months of painful treatment, but is enthusiastic about the doctors and the organizations who took patients like himself for trips to Banff and drives to High River. His aunt, who has cared for him since his infancy, has numerous pictures to show the change in John's physical condition, and is fairly bubbling with pleasure over what the doctors have already accomplished. But equally impressive is the change on John Campbell's face, his courage, and the eagerness with which he looks ahead. In the near future he expects to

The Call of Lent

One of the most frequently quoted statements of Christ is his well-known invitation: "Come unto Me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The rest which Christ offers in these words is, of course, not the immediate freedom from all the cares and trials of life.

Ours is a difficult world, and on our way through it we shall meet many trying and painful experiences. It is not a rest from trial which Christ offers but a rest in trial.

It is the rest and peace which come from the certain knowledge of sins forgiven; that deeper rest and peace which come from knowing that we are God's children, forgiven through the life and death of Christ.

The man who has found pardon for his sins through faith in Christ has found a peace and rest which are beyond the grasp of the unbeliever. There is nothing in life that can harm him. Sickness, loss of wealth, calamity—none of these can disturb that perfect rest which comes from the sure conviction, "I am at peace with God."

Many people today who are at their wit's end, who are leading lives of futility and frustration, who are on the verge of despair and nervous collapse, are in need of just this assurance of the Christian Gospel.

Peace, quiet, confidence—these are to be found in the full acceptance of the Lenten message. "Come unto Me," says Christ, "...and I will give you rest."

Typical of the 42 fashions in Canadian fabrics seen in the Spring-Summer collection of the Association of Canadian Couturiers, in Montreal recently, is this suit in lightweight tweed, by Marie France. In grey tweed, by Ayres, the unique collar treatment marks this design as the work of a couturier. The collection was presented jointly by the couturier association and the Canadian primary textile industry. Reviews of the show paid tribute to the designers' ingenuity and to the quality of the Canadian fabrics used throughout.

Fear on the farm front

Fear on the farm front in Western Canada concerning the consequences of Washington's farm surplus disposal policies, are not likely to be allayed by the assurances of U.S. Ambassador Livingston Merchant that the disruption to world markets occasioned by U.S. giveaways and "tie-in" sales is merely temporary.

The root of the U.S. farm surplus problem, which has become a world problem, is price supports. A searching analysis of the U.S. farm surplus situation made by two leading U.S. farm economists, John D. Black and James Bowen, published recently by the U.S. National Planning Association, states that if the support price system is continued the surplus of U.S. farm products, which in 1955 they placed at 4 percent, will have increased by 1965 to 8.5 percent, even when allowance is made for a substantial increase in U.S. domestic consumption.

The remedy for this situation, in the opinion of Professor Black and Bowen, is for the United States Government to let the prices of farm products fall well towards their free market level, and to confine price supports to a minimum.

Few will quarrel with the wisdom of such views. Unfortunately, nothing that was said by U.S. Ambassador Merchant, or by Republicans or Democrats in the presidential election campaign, contains the slightest indication that the commonsense proposals of Professors Black and Bowen will be heeded in Washington.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

PEACE

The basic issue, blunt and unvarnished, is peace or perish. But mankind and our civilization will not perish. Of that I feel confident.

—Ralph J. Bunche

Peace is the promise and reward of righteousness.—Mary Baker Eddy. Only by a new attitude of mind ruling within it can the state attain to peace within its borders.

—Albert Schweitzer

If we educate enough of our individuals in the fundamentals of peace and security, frictions and irritations between countries will rapidly diminish.

—George C. Marshall

The decisive thing is, not the type of armaments used, not the state of disarmament; the decisive thing is the state of the spirit.

—Charles Malik

LOOKING FOR $50,000 IN GEMS—Recently a fire destroyed a building in Philadelphia housing the city's Diamond Centre and employees of six jewelry firms fled, leaving behind, among other valuables, $50,000 in diamonds in safes and filing cabinets. Search for the jewels, many unset stones, continued after this safe was found buried in debris. The safe, was empty when opened by insurance and city detectives.

BUTTON-SIZE NUCLEAR BATTERY—Five years of research have resulted in an atomic-powered battery which utilizes what was once considered a nuclear waste product as its power source. The tiny battery will deliver power over at least a five-year period. It is the forerunner, supposedly, of batteries for use in radios, guided missiles, hearing aids and even wrist watches. Joint developers Walter Kilde Laboratories and the Elgin National Watch Company stress that more research will be necessary before something like an atomic watch will be possible. Promethium 147, the power source, emits fast-moving rays which are trapped in a specially designed phosphor, converting them to "atomic light." The light is captured by a photo-cell and automatically transformed into energy.

Two riverfront cottages razed in recent days

Fire has destroyed two winterized summer cottages along the riverfront within the past week, forcing the families occupying them to flee into the cold with nothing but the clothes they were wearing.—Glenary News, Alexandria, Ont., Jan. 17/57.

Canadian Weekly Newspapers

(These are not necessarily the views of the editor of this paper)

Policy unchanged

(From The Free Press, Acton, Ont.—January 17, 1937)

We had another inquiry the past week on whether we would accept liquor advertising in our columns. These inquiries come along every so often. Possibly the idea is to keep files up-to-date or see if the paper is still under the same management. At any rate this one came from the Ontario Weekly Newspapers' Association. The answer was the same as it has been for many years—No.

For over seventy years it has been the policy of the Free Press to refuse to accept liquor advertising or advertising paid for by the brewers or distillers.

We have no objection to the constant inquiry, but it seems necessary every so often to register our stand. The Association of which we are a member is only fulfilling its duty when it sends out inquiries to all members.

In the light of present day happenings we feel however that intoxicating beverages need no advertising. We are told time and time again that alcoholics are sick people and need to be treated as such. Institutions for treatment of these sick people, as well as organizations to help alcoholics are becoming more necessary and doing fine work. We'll be most happy to accept advertising from any of these fine groups, but we refuse to publish more bait publicity to lure people to become alcoholics and sick to fill our institutions.

Acceptance of liquor advertising would, we feel, nullify our freedom to express our opinion on the subject. We know our thoughts are contrary to those of many people. We do not want to be looked upon as a martyr in any sense.

Our stand gives us more personal satisfaction than the funds we would derive from the liquor advertising. We do believe we have a duty to our fellow men and women to assist them in their fight against temptation and help them stay well. You do not cure people by administering more of the same poison.

That is our stand. We see no reason to alter it and would not be happy if we changed. If our sole object in life was to accumulate money at any cost we would never have chosen newspaper publishing in the first place.

Home-grown diamonds

(The Lac Ste. Anne Chronicle, Edmonton, Alberta—Dec. 6, 1936)

Canada has amongst its vast mineral resources a very rich diamond deposit. This mine has already produced more than a million dollars' worth of the highest grade gems. The famous gem house of Tiffany and Co. in New York City have some of these Canadian diamonds and they have spent vast sums of money in a vain attempt to solve the source of their origin.

Since the death of the late Dr. Alfred Kunz, an outstanding geologist, who spent some 10 years on this mystery for Tiffany's, a great deal of new knowledge concerning the geology of the far Canadian Northland has come to light. This knowledge was close to him. He was content to work from the known base line and to make his projections northward by mathematics. And what a base line he had to work from.

It extended from the western shores of Lake Michigan to central New York State, well below eastern Lake Ontario. In that area, during the past century, considerably more than 100 magnificent diamonds have been picked up. This area is just above the extreme southern limits of the great ice shovels of the last "ice age"; which geologists estimate occurred some twelve or fifteen thousand years ago. There is no doubt but that the advancing ice ripped off the top layer of this mysterious diamond deposit. The diamonds were carried southward as the ice advanced and when Old Sol again took command of the situation the diamonds were left in the glacial debris as the ice melted.

No need to fear immigration

(From The Post, Hanover, Ont.—Jan. 17, 1937)

Immigration on the present scale should not alarm any Canadian who knows something of the history of his country and has any vision of its economic future. Quite apart from the good it will do to the conscience of Canadians, this massive immigration will foster the culture of the country and promote its industrial, agricultural, commercial and technical development.

Canada would be a pretty poor and humble nation if everybody living here now who was not born in the country had never emigrated to it. Suppose they had all suddenly to go back to the lands of their origins, taking their children and grandchildren with them? According to the 1931 census, 2,059,911 of Canada's population at that time was born outside the country. That is more than a seventh of the total population. Take them away, with all their families, their money, their brains and their skills, and what sort of Canada would be left? Even in an old, stable southern Ontario city like Peterborough 14 percent of the population was foreign-born in 1931.

In 1913, when Canada had a total population of less than seven and a half million people and a gross national product of perhaps two billion dollars, it successfully accommodated, in that one year alone, 400,870 immigrants. Should it be queasy now, even for the most selfish reasons, about admitting in 1937 merely 170,000, when the total population is about sixteen millions and the gross national product may be $3000 millions—Peterborough Examiner.

Industry and the community

(From The Guide, Killarney, Man.—Jan. 17, 1937)

The Manitoba Department of Industry and Commerce has recently released the results of a study made in four of the province's rural communities: Altona, Boissevain, Morden and Steinbach under the heading of what Industry Means to a Community.

It has always been our belief that if a town desires an industry, that industry must develop within. In three of the four towns surveyed, the industry has developed in that manner. In all cases the total payroll was larger in the towns where the industry started from within. This is not an indication that outside interests are not to be considered, but rather that to utilize what we have could be of more benefit.

In Altona, the industry surveyed was the vegetable oil plant, which developed when a need for vegetable oils developed during the war years. Local business men and farmers organized the business to such an extent that in 1935 the company sent $1,550,331 for agricultural products raised in Manitoba, and during the same year paid out in salaries and wages to employees $119,700.55. In addition were the goods and services purchased in the community as well as that spent elsewhere in the province, a total of over $132,000.

In Boissevain, Dring Laminated Structures, which has been developing steadily since its incorporation in 1948, the amount paid out in salaries and wages was $131,601.42, with almost 10 percent of the town's population now dependent directly on the company.

The story repeats itself at Morden with a lesser degree, because of the nature of the product manufactured. Being seasonal, employees are engaged for only part of the year, with a minimum of year-round help being engaged in the plant which was constructed by outside interests.

Steinbach, an isolated community east of the Red River developed a rugged independence because of its isolation, but since 1930 there has been a rapid development in the area and one of several industries paid out over $200,000 in wages in 1935.

In commenting on the above situations, it could be said that Killarney is in a position to service any industry wishing to establish here, but the fact still remains that to develop industry from within is our best opportunity.

The "nood" of curling

(From The Plaindealer, Souris, Man.—Jan. 9, 1937)

Through the years the game of curling has had the word "good" applied to its characteristics perhaps more than any other game. When one thinks of curling he associates with it such attributes as good sportsmanship, good fellowship, good manners.

A good curler knows how to be a good winner or a good loser. He must be good at getting along with and co-operating with others on his rink. A good individual shot means little if the rink is not good at playing as a team.

Good manners are a necessity in curling for this is a game for ladies and gentlemen. Good control, not only over the rock but over the temper characterizes a good curler.

In a bonspiel a good curler plays to win—but for him the game must be good, fair and square, with courtesy toward opponents and towards other players on the rink. Good luck plays a part in curling but good shots are more often the result of skill and good sweeping.

To curlers taking part in Souris' 1937 bonspiel, we wish everything that is good, including a really good time.

YOUR RED CROSS IN ACTION

Ever since 1914 Red Cross volunteers have been visiting, hospitalized ex-servicemen several times each month. They provide them with small comforts such as fruit, cigarettes, magazines and will shop or write letters when necessary. The teddy bears in the picture were made by veterans, under the guidance of a Red Cross Arts and Crafts instructor. Tedious days are shortened when the men are busy making something, or sewing in many cases such hobbies aid in rehabilitation. Red Cross also arranges for the showing of current movies each week in 85 D.V.A. Hospitals across Canada.

B. H. Haaland named Hospital Plan director

Appointment of Benjamin H. Haaland, 44, as executive director of the Saskatchewan Hospital Services Plan was announced by Hon. J. Walter Erb, minister of public health. Mr. Haaland, who has been assistant director, succeeds Glyn W. Myers, who resigned last summer to accept an Ottawa position with the Federal Government.

Mr. Haaland is a native of Watrous, Saskatchewan, where he received his elementary and secondary education. He graduated in pharmacy from the University of Saskatchewan in 1933. He joined the Department of Public Health in 1939 as an administrative pharmacist, and was promoted to assistant executive director of the Hospital Services Plan the following year. Mr. Haaland is married and has one child.

During World War II Mr. Haaland served overseas with an R.C.A.S.C. company and finished his service as acting officer commanding with rank of major. In 1932-33 he was officer commanding (major) of an R.C.A.S.C. reserve company in Regina.

which gives actual-size cutting guides and directions for making it, will be mailed for 35c. This pattern also is one of five in the Early American Reproduction Packet, Price $1.50.

Attractive signs

This pattern is taped on the wood and the saw lines for cutting out the blank figures are traced. To get the alert expressions which make this group so attractive the exact shape and position of each spot of color is also traced. This method is to make sure of a realistic effect in the finished project. This will appeal to anyone who likes to work with color and watch the plain wood come to life as each color is added. When making these figures in quantity a silk-screen printing frame saves time in decorating. Pattern 400 shows how to make frame and directions for use. Numbers 308 and 400 are 35c each. Both are included in the Lawn and Garden Figures Packet at $1.50 postpaid.
